

Work moves to next stage at Naseby Cemetery

Expansion work at the cemetery to make way for new plots will continue on 10 February 2025.

In November last year, the Council began the first stage, which involved the removal of a number of over-mature trees, including shelter trees.

The next stage consists of mulching the slash and clearing the site.

The work is expected to take approximately five days. Signs will be in place. Operations will cease for burials and interments.
